The game? yes, the teams were divided into 4 groups according consisting of students from Comps, IT, EXTC, ETRX, MCA. It was divided into various rounds in which the teams had to do different things to get the numbers crossed of their cards. It all started with the first round in which a video of a song was played although the audio was changed, those who could guess the song got through it. There was a translation round in which the participants were given lyrics in English and they had to sing it in Hindi, another one was matching the tune! in that, an English song was played and one had to sing a Hindi song which shared a similar tune.
